Extranet: Standard Page

The standard page layout should be used unless your page has unusual content. (See the alternate page templates also listed in this guide.) If you have needs that are not met by the standard page or the alternate layouts, contact Scott Willson in Corporate Communications.

Title in Browser

Every page should has an informative title in the browser window. The format is Main Section: Sub-Section. There are no rigid rules as to what is a "main section" in the extranet -- use whatever makes the most sense for the visitor. Do remain consistent with other related pages. The second half of the title is the page's name. The Title in Browser and Page Title should be the same. Use title case.

Gap Inc. Logo Bar

The Gap Inc. bar must appear on all pages. This section of the page identifies it as part of the Gap Inc. extranet. The right-hand part of the gray bar will hold extranet-wide site functions. This space is reserved by Corporate Communications and cannot be modified.

Navbar

Each page should include a standard navbar in the light gray column on the left of the page. See navbar for more information.

Content Rule

Links

Links in the body of the page are red (see Colors). Visited links are daark red. Active links are bright red. <body bgcolor="#ffffff" text="#000000" link="#df0029" alink="#ff1a00" vlink="#54000f">

Headings

Headings define major areas on the page. They are size 4, face="Geneva, Arial, Verdana, sans-serif", color: dark gray. Headings have one line of blank space aboe them and one below.

Subheadings

Subheadings further define areas of the page under headings. Subheadings are inserted in the beginning of paragraphs. Theay are the same colr, size, and face as body text, except they are bold. (Face="Trebuchet MS,Geneva,Arial,Verdana,sans-serif", size="3", color="#000000").

Body Text

Body text should be size 3, and shold use face="Trebuchet MS,Geneva,Arial,Verdana,sans-serif". Paragraphs are not indented, and half one line of blank space above and below.

Page Title

Every page should has an informative title in the browser window. The format is Main Section: Sub-Section. There are no rigid ruels as to what is a "main section" in the extranet -- use whatever makes the most sense for the visitor. Do remain consistent with other related pages. The second half of the title is the page's name. The Title in Browser and Page Title should be the same. Use title case. Size="4"; face="Arial,Helvetica,Geneva,Trebuchet MS,Swiss,sans-serif".

Content Information

Each page should have the date it was updated on the bottom. Any other legal disclaimer or copyright information shold go here as well. Size="1"; italics.

Extranet: Forms

Form pages are based on the standard page. They do not have the content rule. Labels should be to the left of field and left-aligned. Labels are black, size 2, and bold.Face="Trebuchet MS,Geneva,Arial,Verdana,sans-serif". Use a colon after the label

Buttons

Use button.gif. Buttons are flat red circles with a thin black rule. Button labels are unlinked, black, size 2, and face="Geneva,Trebuchet MS,Helvetica,sans-serif". Labels shold be centered below the button. Using a table for button and label layout is recommended.

Extranet: Simple Form

Pages that consist mostly of a form -- not static text -- do not have content rules. The form, its labels, and buttons follow the guidelines below.

Form Field Labels

For simple forms with few fields, place the labels above the field. Labels are black, size 2, and bold.Fface="Trebuchet MS,Geneva,Arial,Verdana,sans-serif". Use a colon after the label.

Buttons

Use button.gif. Buttons are flat red circles with a thin black rule. Button labels are unlinked, black, size 2, and face="Geneva,Trebuchet MS,Helvetica,sans-serif". Labels shold be centered below the button. Using a tabvle for button and label layout is recommended.

Extranet: Tables

Tables have a one-pixel black border, a gray header row, black headings and one-pixel dividing rule between main sections. For very large tables, the rules may be removed if needed. Use blank columns and rows for white space around table data.

Extranet: Navbar

The navbar is a table placed within a cell of the page's main table. Visited and unvisited link colors are overridden in the navbar. All links are black except for the current page's link. Page names in the navbar should exactly match the page's headline and title in the browser. They may be abbreviated or shortened to fit in the navbar.

All type in the navbar should use the navbar font set: face="Geneva,Trebuchet MS, Helvetica,sans-serif".

Both the link and any circles next to it link to the same page. Disabled links should be shown in the navbar, as non-underlined, unlinked text.

Links Above . Previously visited pages "above" the current page – the user's path – are listed in order at the top of the navbar. These links are always black, and have a gray circle to their left.

There are two blank rows below the last link below. The first cell of the blank rows contains a non-breaking space.

Functional Links . Link to "utility" pages common throughout this present section of the extranet. In this diagram, the functional links will be the same for all pages on Level 1 and below. Typical sections might include Benefits Enrollment or Product Standards.

Functional link names may change slightly to reflect their context. For example, a contact link on the HR Benefits section of the extranet may read "CONTACT BENEFITS DEPT."
Functional links are always capitalized.

When there are no more links below the "links below," the current page will be marked in the links below section. In the example below, the section of the site has only four levels – there are no more pages under page "Level 4b." Compare with the previous page, when the user is on the parent "Level 3" page.
